

Madonna,

On Tuesday, 18 October 2016, you offered to perform oral sex on voters who cast their ballots for Hillary Clinton. A direct quote from your introduction of Comedian Amy Schumer follows.

"If you vote for Hillary Clinton, I will give you a blow job, Ok? I'm really good. I'm not a douche and I'm not a tool. I take my time, I have a lot of eye contact and I do swallow..."

I have gone over this statement numerous times, three with my attorneys, and we all agree that the combination of your offer and my Clinton vote (of which I'm willing to provide photographic evidence) constitutes a verbal contract. At this point there is but to discuss logistics. I'm under no delusion that you, personally, will perform the act and I'm not an unreasonable man. It would be far preferable if it were you, however I understand your schedule.

On that note, could you ensure that the representative you send, assuming it isn't you, looks like you from the 90's and shares your enthusiasm for knob gobbling? Your above quote clearly sets forth what I feel are acceptable requirements for the exchange.

Have your representatives call or email me to arrange the particulars. I would like to personally thank you for the most gracious offer. It has long been a fantasy of mine to experience exactly this event.

Sincerely,

